I think that your reference Nakai (col.10, lines 3-6) does not teach special error-handling(s). The reference Nakai only show a following non-special matter: if error, then, goto a step for the error.

The Nakai's US-6,253,248 has a corresponding Japanese application published as "Toku-Kai-Heisei-11-3307" from Japan Patent Office on 6-Jan-1999. I have read the application (in Japanese). There is a corresponding part for the reference Nakai at term #0075 (col.14, lines 29-33). The term #0075 does not show special error-handling matter(s).
